After years of planning and anticipation, the new Wee Care Day Care was opened in Fedor Hall during the third week in June.

According to Donna McGrath, president, Wee Care, the long-awaited day care can house 125 children from the ages of six weeks to 10 years.

McGrath said 45 children are currently enrolled in the program, and there are still slots left.

McGrath also said the center is open 5:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, which will allow flexible hours for students and faculty to schedule around their classes.

Allison Shaughnessy, assistant director, Wee Care, said there will be discounts given to students.

"The amount of the discount depends on the financial needs of the student," she said.

Shaughnessy also said she thinks YSU's enrollment will increase now that the day care is open.

"The day care will allow individuals with children to attend classes by accommodating them with flexible hours," she said.

Shaughnessy also discussed the different facilities available to the children at the day care.

She said, "We have an outdoor area of the day care with a jungle-gym and a sandbox. We will also have a sprinkler soon."
