A MESSAGE FROM THE STAFF

Before the advent of WYSU in 1969, fine arts radio was enjoyed by a very special privileged few in the Youngstown area who were fortunate enough to receive the signals of distant cultural stations.

With the birth of a fine arts station on the Youngstown State University campus, however, all this changed. Today, opera, symphonies, and indeed all forms of classical music, jazz, Broadway, and folk music are available to more than 4,000,000 people in northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. The WYSU schedule also includes intelligent conversation, comprehensive daily news and information programming, and excellent readings (poetry and prose) by great actors.

What we are doing is not an attempt to rival commercial stations or to capture a mass audience. We are proud of WYSU's unique purpose as an educational station: to inform, to educate, to challenge, to provoke, to please, and even to inspire our listeners.

We believe that the listeners of WYSU will profit emotionally and intellectually from our broadcasts. Children, students, housewives, teachers, steelworkers — all of us — can be educated and entertained by the programming of WYSU.

Now in our fifth year of broadcast service, we pledge to continue our struggle against the force of poverty, ignorance, indifference, and historical condition that separate vast numbers of our people from the arts. We also pledge to continue to encourage the cultural vitality of the Youngstown area. Our mission shall remain to upgrade tastes and interests, to teach, inform, stimulate, and thus to improve the quality of life.

We hope that you'll share this guide with others in order that they might discover what they've been missing by not listening to Youngstown's fine arts station.
