Budapest,
December 22, 2004

Dear Professor Domonkos,

Thank you so much for your kind letter of December 19, 2003 - it has apparently been lost in the mail for a year; Professor Janos M. Bak has recently forwarded it to me.

Please find enclosed a copy of my recent contribution on Medieval Glosses in MS Munich, Bayerische Staatsbibliothek, Clm. 6211 - it has just come out in the Acta Mediaevalia of the Catholic University of Lublin in Poland. I am sending this copy to you with great respect.

On March 23, 2004, I have successfully (magna cum laude) defended my doctoral dissertation on Latin Classics in Medieval Hungary: Eleventh Century and at the graduation ceremony on June 17 I have solemnly been declared a doctor.

The Hungarian Scientific Research Fund provided me with a postdoctoral teaching position at the University of Budapest for the 2004/2005 academic year: I am teaching seminars on Medieval Latin (four classes a week, an hour and a half each - which counts as a rather heavy teaching load by local standards).

I am now at the stage of turning my doctoral dissertation into a book: it will be published in English as a separate volume in the series Agatha of the Department of Classics at the University of Debrecen in Hungary. The New York office of Central European University Press will also be distributing the book so it already does have the Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data. The book will be out at the beginning of 2005.

I am sorry to have missed the chance of meeting you while I was a dissertation fellow in the Erasmus Institute at the University of Notre Dame, but I do hope to meet you some time in the future. Until then, I remain

Yours sincerely,

Elod Nemerkenyi

TO: Prof. Leslie S. Domonkos

Dear Friend and Colleague:

Having learned that Professors Steven Béla Várdy and Agnes Huszár Várdy — recognized scholars of the history and culture of Hungary and East Central Europe — are close to retirement, we — their friends or former students — have decided to prepare a Festschrift in their honor. We are inviting you to contribute a study or an essay to this volume that we hope to publish in about two years.

This call for contributions is being sent out to several dozen people on three continents. We hope that most of you will decide to participate in this venture. At the same time we do realize that because of personal and other considerations some of you may not wish, or may not be able to participate. This is the reason why we are not sending out specifications about the prospective contributions (e.g., length, system of documentation, preferred computer program, etc.) until we have learned the number of contributors. Upon receiving your answers — positive or negative —, we will respond with a second circular that will contain all of the necessary specifications.

If at all possible, please respond with an e-mail to all three of the editors. Also give us an indication of the topic or title of your proposed paper.

As we do have a time table that we want to follow, we would like you to respond about your decision within a month after having received this letter. We, in turn, will respond with a second circular, containing the above specifications. At that time we will also specify when and in what form we would like to receive your contributions.

During the preparation and editing process we hope to be in frequent contact with you. Therefore, we would like to have both your e-mail address and your preferred postal address.

Those of you who do not use e-mail, please make sure that you send us your phone numbers, so that in case of need we can get in touch with you immediately.

Sincerely yours,
